B. C. Perspectives is published occasionally by a committee of students and faculty in the Department of Social Sciences at Cariboo College. The objective of the journal is to publish student work on some aspect of British Columbia studies.

Manuscripts are solicited from students or departments submitting them on behalf of students. Papers should not exceed twenty-five typewritten pages, including notes and illustrations. B. C. Perspectives will also consider publishing primary material, provided it has been edited. Reviews of books relevant to British Columbia are also solicited, although these usually should not exceed four typewritten pages. Material for the journal should be directed to B. C. Perspectives, Department of Social Sciences, Cariboo College, Kamloops, B. C. If return of original manuscripts is requested, the material should be accompanied by a self-addressed envelope.

B. C. Perspectives assumes no responsibility for statements of fact or opinion made by authors. We believe that papers accepted for publication must stand on their own, and we have done very little editing.

Subscriptions. Although this issue is free, subsequent issues will cost $3.00 for three issues or $1.50 each. Donations to support the publication costs of this journal will be gratefully received.
