

CONTRIBUTORS:

J.M.S. Careless teaches Canadian History at the University of Toronto. He is widely known for his work on Brown of the Globe and Metropolitanism. He is currently working on a study of the urban dimension of Canadian Society during the nineteenth century.

G.L. Cook teaches Canadian History at Simon Fraser University. Professor Cook has used local source material relating to British Columbia's entry into Confederation and the Depression in his classes.

J. Gresko teaches Canadian History at Douglas College. She has worked as a guide at Fort Langely and Lower Fort Garry National Historic Parks and is currently teaching a history course at Fort Langely.

A.J. Hiebert teaches Canadian History at Okanagan College. His article stems from research he did on Prohibition for his M.A. degree at Simon Fraser University.