COLLEGE NOT CONSULTED ABOUT SEX PROGRAM - HARRISON SAYS

Cariboo College Principal Jack Harrison said today that Cariboo College has never been approached by Kelowna Sex Shop Operator Fran McKinnon with regard to the offering of an Adult Education course in human sexuality.

"I am disappointed," he said, "by the article which was published in the Kamloops News on October 5.

This article appeared to associate the College with a business venture merchandising sex aids."

"I have checked with the College administration, and have been assured that, to the best of their knowledge, there have been no discussions with Ms. McKinnon regarding any courses."

The Principal stated that it was "regrettable" that the headline which implied that we would offer such a course in our Adult Education program was so emphasized.

In conclusion, Harrison said, "Cariboo College will not be interested in supporting this kind of approach or in offering a course in such a context."
