VANCOUVER EXPLORATIONS

Planning to attend Expo? Going to Vancouver for the first time or you have been so many times that you cannot recall exactly how often?

This year much of our focus is on the World's Fair in Vancouver, but it is also the city's centennial. In fact, Expo was originally conceived as a means to celebrate Vancouver's 100th birthday.

As Vancouver is the largest city in our province and offers many opportunities and attractions, it is often a destination for our travels. Moreover, many of us have lived in Vancouver and find ourselves returning often to our former home. Yet, we seem to have a limited understanding of the city's development and even of some of its more unique places.

But that can all change as a result of the next lecture in Cariboo College's Lecture Series. On Friday, March 21, 1986, at 7:30 P.M. in the College's Boardroom, Barry Weaver, Educational Coordinator and Counsellor at the Williams Lake Campus, will talk about Vancouver. The lecture, lavishly illustrated with slides, will explore the development of the city and offer interesting insights into some of the well-known and even lesser known places in the Vancouver landscape. Plan to attend this intriguing and rewarding lecture so you can travel to Vancouver as a more knowledgeable visitor.
